LAKERS READY FOR TASK

If any team can pick itself up off the floor it is South Melbourne. The club suffered a painful 3-1 loss here a fortnight ago but today will be the day that South Melbourne will show they're still in town. Brisbane is no easybeat. South Melbourne didn't manage one goal against the Strikers in their three encounters last season. Brisbane currently sit pretty on top of the Ericsson Cup.

But there is too much quality in South Melbourne for the barren spell to continue.

The Young Socceroos are back today and that has added pressure to the incumbents in the side. Damianos, Blatsis Allsopp and Curcija had a great spell on the Young Socceroo tour and they're ready to stake their claim for a place in the South side.

Paul Trimboli, Jason Polak and Warren Spink are also back after Australia's two games with Tahiti. Spink was suffering from a hamstring complaint but the problem is the constant disruption to the South squad.

Representative team commitments and injuries means that Ang Postecoglou hasn't trained with a full squad since the early pre-season days.

The side is assembled today to its fullest potential and the Lakers are ready to once again show they are an Ericsson Cup front runner.

Action from South's 3-1 loss to Sydney United.

IOSIFIDIS RISES TO CHALLENGE

There aren't many players that can walk into a leading club, claim a first team position and star in early games. Especially not a relative rookie.

But that is exactly what Steve Iosifidis has done at South Melbourne in the short time he has been there.

After joining the Lakers from Victorian Premier League runners-up, Heidelberg United, Iosifidis has made people take notice of his brave yet elegant playing style and his commitment to offering everything he has.

Iosifidis was one of Heidelberg's best in the 1996 Premier League season, playing in a variety of positions under coach, Dusan Brnovic.

Brnovic has said that Iosifidis is a future Soccerroo, which is why South Melbourne were delighted when he signed for two years with the Lakeside club.

Iosifidis joined Heidelberg as a 19-year-old from Altona East and initially played a handful of games under Dragan Sekularac. Then came Mike Urukalo and a difficult time.

Urukalo dropped Iosifidis at one stage and that, coupled with a chronic groin injury, which sidelined him for six months, had Iosifidis struggling to continue to make his mark.

But his sterling 1996 season did not go unnoticed and Laker coach Ang Postecoglou did not hesitate to add him to the squad.

Iosifidis is overwhelmed at joining South. Despite "barracking" for Heidelberg as a young lad, he always "supported" South, recognising they are the nation's biggest soccer club.

"As a kid I always wanted to play for South Melbourne," Iosifidis said.

Iosifidis has only been Lakeside for roughly six weeks, but the club has left a huge impression on him.

"I couldn't believe the professionalism," he said.

"I mean a player getting treated like a professional will play like a professional."

Despite suffering a 1-3 loss to Sydney United, Iosifidis' first home game at Bob Jane Stadium was something he'll always cherish.

"It was excellent. The only experience I've had with that sort of atmosphere was playing against South Melbourne," Iosifidis said.

"But we've got to prove to our supporters that we're a Top Six side. That first half against Sydney United was so disappointing."

Iosifidis heaps praise on his fellow Lakers and new coach Ang Postecoglou. His new teammates have been "superb" to him from day one and Postecoglou has earned their respect.

"I consider him as one of the boys, but in the same respect as a coach. He'll tell you off if you've done something wrong but he'll also hear you out."

Iosifidis showed his adaptability against the Pumas when he began the first half in right midfield before spending the second half closely checking Ante Milicic.

At Heidelberg he covered virtually every position on the park except goalkeeper and it is this and his composure that makes Iosifidis a special player.

To mark his arrival at Australia's most noble soccer body, Iosifidis felt like "shocking" so he went under the barber's razor. The result being a brash new sharp hairstyle which definitely achieved its aim.

"I'm at a new club, with new supporters and I wanted to shock," Iosifidis said.

"I heard a guy outside call me Cantona, but I'm not Cantona!"

Steve Iosifidis may not be Cantona but if there is any Australian who can match Manchester United's Frenchman for his spirit, then it may be Iosifidis.

POSTECOGLOU DEMANDS MORE FROM PLAYERS

South Melbourne supremo Ang Postecoglou is looking for a much improved performance when his charges tackle league leaders Brisbane Strikers tonight.

Postecoglou is seeking South Melbourne's first win to prove to the doubters that his Lakers are a sharp outfit.

Last week's game against Adelaide City was postponed due to national team commitments and South used the chance to regroup after the 3-1 home loss to Sydney United.

Postecoglou is certain South will improve markedly today.

"I'm sure the players will respond because they're as disappointed as I was," Postecoglou said.

"I can assure you the players won't do that again."

Postecoglou believes it may take a bit of time for South to settle into stride given the many changes in the squad.

"It's going to take a little bit of time before they know each other well. Our fluency will improve and people will begin to understand each other."

"The improvement will come from each individual and above all, the quality of the players themselves."

Asked who the Lakers' best players so far have been, Postecoglou said:

"I think both the two new boys (De Amicis and Iosifidis) have done very well and Alex Kuzmanovic has done a fairly good job at sweeper. The rest haven't done themselves justice yet."

Today, Postecoglou welcomes back the Young Socceroo quartet and changes may be expected.

In defence, Alex Kuzmanovic, Nick Orlic and Fausto De Amicis have shaken off bouts of the 'flu and are ready for a much stronger showing.

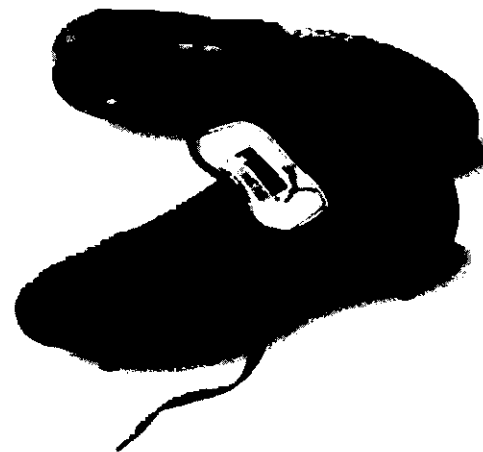

Brisbane are a talented side but Postecoglou says the Lakers must win.

"It's a must-win but I also want a much better performance," Postecoglou said.

"I'll be disappointed even if we win and don't compete. I think we can't stand for another performance like the one with Sydney United."

Postecoglou takes on Brisbane's Frank Farina in the coaching ranks today, but is more wary of Farina's playing ability.

"For me the big worry is Frank playing, not coaching, so we'll have to watch him closely. He's still a quality player."

Brisbane United 1 (Hunter)

Middle Park, Round 24, 1992-93

South Melbourne continued on their rampaging way to the National top spot by comfortably disposing of a disjointed Brisbane United.

Not even the humid conditions worked against South Melbourne, who scored five, but missed an array of chances.

Francis Awaritefe, who scored a hat-trick, began the afternoon frustratingly, missing a simple chance after Peter Tsolakis thumped the post with a shot.

Awaritefe did get the opener with a vintage South Melbourne goal after some neat lead-up work.

A Paul Trimboli backheel to Steve Tasios followed by a searching cross into the area gave Awaritefe a simple goal.

Con Boutsianis then doubled the score, poking the ball home at the far post after a piercing Tasios centre.

Brisbane came back momentarily after complacency in the South defence gave Alan Hunter the chance to beat Dean Anastasiadis.

Peter Tsolakis restored South's two goal lead though, driving the ball home from 18 yards after Tasios nodded on a Boutsianis corner.

Brisbane failed to mount a second-half challenge and Awaritefe got another two in the second stanza, capitalising both times on enterprising lead-up work from Boutsianis.

Awaritefe's hat-trick sent him to the top of the scorers' charts, while South, who were reigning champs, marched into the finals.

LAKERS YOUNG SOCCEROOS SHINE ON TOUR

South Melbourne's four Young Socceroos who were part of the tour to South America, were among the best of the squad. Collectively, they netted 15 of Australia's 18 goals, a remarkable effort.

The Young Socceroos toured Argentina, Uruguay and Chile, playing seven friendly games in preparation for the 1997 World Youth Championships.

Laker striker, Michael Curcija, was the top scorer on the tour, snaring seven goals including both of Australia's goals in the 2-1 victory over Chile.

Rising star, Bill Damianos, was second top scorer with four goals from midfield, but more importantly his performances in South America were of the highest order.

World Under 17 Golden Boot holder, Daniel Allsopp, scored three goals in the four games he played in.

Even defender Con Blatsis got among the action, netting one of Australia's goals.

All four players are available for this evening's important game with Brisbane. The quartet trained with the side for the past two weeks and are ready to continue their fine form in the Ericsson Cup.

South Melbourne coach, Ang Postecoglou, is delighted with the temporary return of the boys who will soon depart on another tour, this time to South Africa.

"They're very enthusiastic and keen and they all look sharp. They did very well over there," Postecoglou said.

Unfortunately for the Lakers, the boys are off to Africa for another tour, but Daniel Allsopp surprisingly will not head over. He has been overlooked, but another of South's dynamic youngsters, Tansell Baser, will join Damianos, Curcija and Blatsis in the squad.

South Melbourne's five members of the Young Socceroos squad is the highest number of any Ericsson Cup club.

BRISBANE STRIKERS

The Strikers travel to Bob Jane today as league leaders, having won two of their first three games and sharing the points in the other.

Last week, the Strikers convincingly outclassed Wollongong City by 2-1, although the score may have been greater.

Frank Farina's boys have made the start they've wanted this season, but today they face arguably their stiffest test of the season. Few teams come to South Melbourne and head back victorious.

Coach, Frank Farina, has a squad with an extremely contrasting mix of senior and young players.

Four 300 game players are with Brisbane. Gary Phillips, Alan Hunter, former South legend, Danny Wright and Rod Brown, who played his 300th last week, provide the experience in the squad.

Brothers Troy and Sean Cranney are also highly capable players and the likes of defender Glenn Gwynne, Mark Battistin and Andrew Brayshaw are always a handful for the opposition.

It is the young talent at Brisbane that is most promising to the club. The Strikers have a ready supply of enthusiastic youngsters set to make a name for themselves in the Ericsson Cup.

Strikers veteran, Rod Brown, believes it is this blend of experience and up and coming youth that will keep the Strikers in good stead.

"I think with the youngsters coming through and with the experience of several players such as myself, the club's future is assured," Brown said.

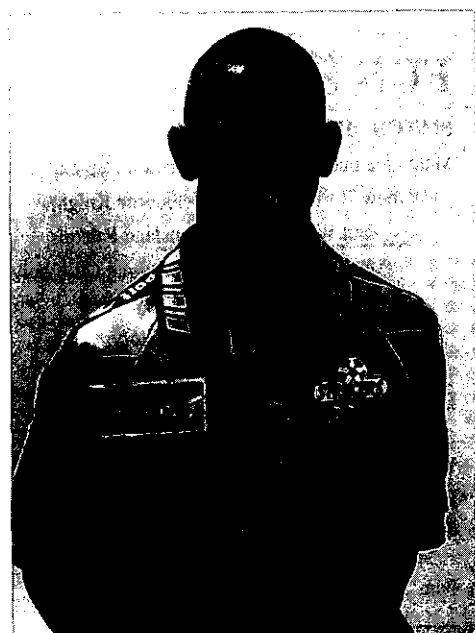

"The QAS (Queensland Academy of Sport) lads who have been brought into the squad, Kasey Wehrman, Wayne Knipe and Matt Bell, have all been combining well with the older heads in the team."

One of the young starlets, Kasey Wehrman, came into prominence last week after an audacious celebration of his maiden A League goal against Wollongong.

After firing a long range shot which bounced in off the upright, Wehrman produced an extravagant flip, similar to those of English club Newcastle's Colombian forward, Faustino Asprilla.

A classy midfielder, Wehrman made his Ericsson Cup debut against South Melbourne last season and has proven his worth since by gaining a spot in Farina's first eleven.

The Strikers, who made the finals for the first time last year, are a fine outfit and will ensure today's game is not comfortable for South Melbourne.

Lakers fans will be hoping they don't see Kasey Wehrman's audacious celebrations today.
